(The National Jewish Army Haganah has announced its firm intention to fight on and defend a Jewish state whether Palestine is partitioned or not. It has taken fully on its own shoulders the responsibility for ensuring that the Jews remain in the Holy Land, no matter what steps the United Nations takes or if the Arabs launch a holy war. Hitherto unknown facts and figures about Haganah are presented in the following article, second in a series by Kenneth L. Dixon of International News Service. For nearly a month and over an area of 3,000 miles, Dixon toured training camps, recruitment depots and Haganah command posts under Arab fire. Dixon describes herewith more reasons why the Jews believe they can hold their own in any emergency and against any opposition.)

To evaluate the potential prowess of the Jewish army Haganah it is necessary to inspect its training—past and present, at home and abroad.

Compared to ordinary armies, the new Jewish force has a training and combat background entirely unique in world military history.

It will be composed predominantly of the men and women of the Haganah—Palestine Jewry's 30-year-old "illegal" defense army.

And the Haganah leadership is the boiled-down product of a score or more of world armies, training systems and combat scenes.

Further, it is quite safe to say that those present Jewish soldiers who survived the past two decades did so largely because that combat training "took," and turned them into experts.

As a result, today the new Jewish army has a basic cadre of more than 30,000 World War II veterans who, for months, have been secretly training Palestine's volunteers and recruits.

Most of those training officers and men saw service in the British army—in the Jewish brigade, in the paratroopers, the commandos, the behind-the-lines sabotage units, the

Hendricks Brothers Are Given Area Franchise

The Iron Fireman Manufacturing Company, Cleveland, O., today announced awarding of a franchise to Hendricks Brothers, 821 Cedar street, local sheet metal and heating contractors, for the company's complete line of coal and oil fired furnaces, stokers, and Vortex oil burners. The franchise, which includes both sales and service, will cover all of the territory in lower Bucks County, according to the announcement.

The Iron Fireman automatic stoker burns coal in the most scientific fashion, according to Hendricks Brothers. Heat losses due to hand firing are eliminated and the heat saved is turned into extra family comfort; and in addition, there are no drafts to adjust—no fires to bank. The Iron Fireman stoker does all this automatically.

Five county seat juvenile boys, ranging in age from 11 to 15 years, who have been robbing parked cars of any ornament which can be worn as a bracelet by a girl, have been apprehended by the Doylestown Police Department.

Chief of Police Felix R. Gowan, who said the boys will be turned over to the office of the District Attorney, stated the first theft was reported on Thursday evening.

The ornament, which is a cylindrical ring, is part of a radiator "torpedo sight" on a new Buick model. The boys broke the cylindrical ring in their attempts to extricate them from the cars.

The ornaments, which resembles a heavy type bracelet, was worn by girls for whom the boys did the stealing.

Chief Gowan estimated that the damages done to a car amount to about $10.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Belgrade offered anew to return Trieste to Italy if the Italian City of Gorizia were ceded to Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav Government, in a formal note to Washington, Paris and London, denounced the three-power proposal on Trieste as an attempt to bolster the chances of the anti-Communist forces in the forthcoming elections.

The Allied Military Government in Trieste announced last night that Yugoslav patrols had penetrated the British-American zone of the free territory and had fought a machine-gun battle with civil police. One policeman was reported wounded.

Italian Foreign Minister Sforza, in identical notes to the three Western powers, expressed Rome's gratitude for their proposal to return Trieste to Italy and accepted their suggestion on the procedure for revising the peace treaty to make that possible. Premier de Gasperi and French Foreign Minister Bidault issued a joint statement following a lengthy conference, citing their aim to form an Italian-French bloc that would become the foundation of European unity. Britain was reported ready to urge Italy's admission into the United Nations.

In Berlin, all meetings of the subsidiary organizations of the Allied Control Council were indefinitely suspended after the Russians had requested such a move on the plea that Russian members of those groups were either ill or too busy to attend. General Clay, reacting calmly to the Russian boycott, emphasized that Americans intended to remain in the German capital.

Palestine strife reached a new peak with at least five Arabs killed and thirty wounded in Haifa as Jews hit back in apparent reprisal for the Arab bombing of the Soliel Boneh Building. At least fifty more Arabs were reported killed during a large-scale Arab attack west of Jerusalem.

THE TASKS AHEAD

All signs point to a Republican victory in the coming Presidential election. The New Deal, after sixteen years in clover, appears to have run its course.

Starting next year, the nation politically will have that "New Look"—politically speaking.

Returning to Republican leadership in White House and Congress will produce fundamental changes. It will be a step just as revolutionary, in its way, as was the New Deal's attempt to Socialize this country after the Roosevelt victory in 1934.

The tasks which will be faced by the incoming Republican President are so immense that one is forced to wonder why there are so many persons who want the job.

The work will be hard. It will be tense and nerve-racking. Nor will it be soon finished. Years may be required to get the national ship of state back on a straight course.

A great deal of harm has been done to many of the country's fundamentals. Some of the damage is in the habits of thinking of the people themselves. They have been taught to believe in fairy tales—in political and economic monstrosities; and the uprooting of the prejudices and misconceptions now so prevalent will be a long, uphill task.

Consider just one of the great problems, as showing how complicated the job will be of trying to restore the point of view and the Constitutional methods which made this country strong, united and prosperous during its happier periods.

Fundamental in the American concept of government is the theory that every citizen has the right to a fair trial before he is punished, or before he is deprived of his property. The Constitution and the Declaration of Independence both were built on the belief that a fundamental right of free men is the presence of a judicial system which shall be, first, impartial and non-political; and second, available to citizens in all cases affecting their rights, even in their disagreements with their government itself.

This is one of the striking and basic differences between free government as provided in the American Constitution, and the many recent theories such as Communism, Socialism, totalitarianism, collectivism, the "welfare" state, etc., etc. The American concept is that the individual has rights which no one, not even the government, dares take away; the foreign theories now im-

SIXTH CLASS IS HELD

Police officers were given a demonstration on the not so gentle art of self-defense by Richard F. McIlwain, FBI agent from the Philadelphia area, in the municipal building yesterday morning at the sixth advanced law enforcement class.

McIlwain gave a brief history of "Jiu Jitsu." Contrary to popular belief, jiu-jitsu was not originally started in Japan. Its origin came from China in the 12th century by travelers as a method of protecting themselves from marauding bands of outlaws. From China it was taken to Japan where it was improved upon. From Japan it came to America, where it was altered by adding necessary contact sports to this system of self defense and the name was changed to "Judo."

"Judo," said the FBI agent, "is dirty fighting. There are no Mar-

BIG PARADE PLANS

Philadelphia Police and Firemen Musical Organization To Parade Here

PLANS ARE MATURING

Plans are beginning to mature for the big firemen's parade to be held here Saturday afternoon, June 12th. A committee of firemen has been working industriously all during the winter months to make the affair one of the biggest, if not the largest ever held in Bucks County. The meeting last night was held in the fire station of America Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. No. 2, and was presided over by Clifford Hagerman, Bristol fire chief.

POLICE TOLD TO
TO BE ALERT AND
SERVE THE PUBLIC

Charles G. Rathke, President of Borough Council, Starts Series of Talks

HAS NO CRITICISMS

States His Remarks Are Made Generally and To
No Individual

In the first of a series of "Public Relations Talks", Charles G. Rathke, president of Bristol borough council, yesterday sat down and discussed with the Bristol borough police force the "relations between the public and the police officer."

The talk was held in the police recreation room in the municipal building, and followed the class conducted by the FBI earlier in the morning. At the conclusion of Mr. Rathke's talk, S. Joseph Alta, chairman of the police committee of borough council, talked with the men concerning their relations with the borough, their employer.

Rathke prefaced his remarks by explaining to the police officers that conditions everywhere today are changed. "Borough council is not the same as it was before. Your police department is different, and one of the objects of my talk to you and to the other borough employees is to make you all conscious of the fact that you are a part of the borough organization. It is not a lecture, and what I have to say is not directed to anyone in particular, but we want you to see yourself as others see you. Working for the public is a thankless job. As police officers it is not what you are but what you are doing today that the public considers; and what they say you are doing."

Here Mr. Rathke asked the policemen if they knew how Webster defined a police officer, briefly stating that it is an organization of civilian officers for law enforcement. He then elaborated, informing that the burgess is the real boss of the police department; then the chairman of the police committee and the police committee, and the chief of police who carries instructions down to the officers. "Don't condemn new ideas. If you have criticisms take them to the chief and make suggestions wherein you think new rules or new regulations may be wrong, or can be improved upon. Learn to think for yourselves in carrying out your instructions. Keep in mind you are public servants, and in the public eye you are a police officer 24 hours a day, although you may not be working 24 hours a day. In your contacts be pleasant and helpful. If one officer does something off-color it reflects on the whole department."

Rathke explained that he had taken a course in municipal government affairs at the University of Pennsylvania, Phila., at nights during the past winter, and that he

SELF-DEFENSE ART IS DEMONSTRATED

Police Officers Hear History of "Jiu Jitsu"; Instructions Are Given

SIXTH CLASS IS HELD

Police officers were given a demonstration on the not so gentle art of self-defense by Richard F. McIlwain, FBI agent from the Philadelphia area, in the municipal building yesterday morning at the sixth advanced law enforcement class.

McIlwain gave a brief history of "Jiu Jitsu." Contrary to popular belief, jiu-jitsu was not originally started in Japan. Its origin came from China in the 12th century by travelers as a method of protecting themselves from marauding bands of outlaws. From China it was taken to Japan where it was improved upon. From Japan it came to America, where it was altered by adding necessary contact sports to this system of self defense and the name was changed to "Judo."

"Judo," said the FBI agent, "is dirty fighting. There are no Mr. Continued on Page Three

SQUAD CALLS

Bucks County Rescue Squad transported Joseph John Pierce, of New Brunswick, N. J., from a physician's office to St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, N. J., yesterday. Pierce had been stricken ill in the Pennell area while walking from Philadelphia to his home, he having been in search of employment. Mrs. Rose Bergantino, Dorrance street, suffered a possible skull fracture when she fell down stairs, and squad members took her to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia. The squad is also administering oxygen to William Reynolds, at his home on Greb avenue, Edgely, he having suffered a heart attack.

FIREMEN MAPPING BIG PARADE PLANS

Philadelphia Police and Firemen Musical Organization To Parade Here

PLANS ARE MATURING

Plans are beginning to mature for the big firemen's parade to be held here Saturday afternoon, June 12th. A committee of firemen has been working industriously all during the winter months to make the affair one of the biggest, if not the largest ever held in Bucks County. Hundreds of invitations have been sent to fire companies in neighboring towns and cities and acceptances are beginning to be received. The parade will be the concluding feature of a two-day convention of the Bucks County Firemen's Association which will convene here on Friday evening, June 11th.

One of the features of the parade will be the Philadelphia Police & Firemen's Band, consisting of 40 pieces. The Bristol committee received assurances from Director of Public Safety of Philadelphia, James Malone, that the band will be on hand to parade on June 12th.

During the next two months the parade committee plans to get right down to details and complete the arrangements for this big affair. There are many details to arrange and every member of the committee is asked to attend the meetings.

The meeting last night was held in the fire station of America Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. No. 2 and was presided over by Clifford Hagerman, Bristol fire chief.

POLICE TOLD TO TO BE ALERT AND SERVE THE PUBLIC

Charles G. Rathke, President of Borough Council, Starts Series of Talks

HAS NO CRITICISMS

States His Remarks Are Made Generally and To
No Individual

In the first of a series of "Public Relations Talks", Charles G. Rathke, president of Bristol borough council, yesterday sat down and discussed with the Bristol borough police force the "relations between the public and the police officer."

The talk was held in the police recreation room in the municipal building, and followed the class conducted by the FBI earlier in the morning. At the conclusion of Mr. Rathke's talk, S. Joseph Alta, chairman of the police committee of borough council, talked with the men concerning their relations with the borough, their employer.

Rathke prefaced his remarks by explaining to the police officers that conditions everywhere today are changed. "Borough council is not the same as it was before. Your police department is different, and one of the objects of my talk to you and to the other borough employees is to make you are a part of the borough organization. It is not a lecture, and what I have to say is not directed to anyone in particular, but we want you to see yourself as others see you. Working for the public is a thankless job. As police officers it is not what you are but what you are doing today that the public considers; and what the public says you are and what they say you are doing."

Here Mr. Rathke asked the policemen if they knew how Webster defined a police officer, briefly stating that it is an organization of civilian officers for law enforcement. He then elaborated, informing that the burgess is the real boss of the police department; then the chairman of the police committee and the police committee, and the chief of police who carries instructions down to the officers. "Don't condemn new ideas. If you have criticisms take them to the chief and make suggestions wherein you think new rules or new regulations may be wrong, or can be improved upon. Learn to think for yourselves in carrying out your instructions. Keep in mind you are public servants, and in the public eye you are a police officer 24 hours a day, although you may not be working 24 hours a day. In your contacts be pleasant and helpful. If one officer does something off-color it reflects on the whole department."

Rathke explained that he had taken a course in municipal government affairs at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, at nights during the past winter, and that he

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Belgrade offered anew to return Trieste to Italy if the Italian City of Gorizia were ceded to Yugoslavia. The Yugoslav Government, in a formal note to Washington, Paris and London, denounced the three-power proposal on Trieste as an attempt to bolster the chances of the anti-Communist forces in the forthcoming elections.

The Allied Military Government in Trieste announced last night that Yugoslav patrols had penetrated the British-American zone of the free territory and had fought a machine-gun battle with civil police. One policeman was reported wounded.

Italian Foreign Minister Storza, in identical notes to the three Western powers, expressed Rome's gratitude for their proposal to return Trieste to Italy and accepted their suggestion on the procedure for revising the peace treaty to make that possible. Premier de Gasperi and French Foreign Minister Bidault issued a joint statement following a lengthy conference, citing their aim to form an Italian-French bloc that would become the foundation of European unity. Britain was reported ready to urge Italy's admission into the United Nations.

In Berlin, all meetings of the subsidiary organizations of the Allied Control Council were indefi-nately suspended after the Russians had requested such a move on the plea that Russian members of those groups were either ill or too busy to attend. General Clay, reacting calmly to the Russian boycott, emphasized that Americans intended to remain in the German capital.

Palestine strife reached a new peak with at least five Arabs killed and thirty wounded in Haifa as Jews hit back in apparent reprisal for the Arab bombing of the Solel Boneh Building. At least fifty more Arabs were reported killed during a large-scale Arab attack west of Jerusalem.

The United States Military Government in Korea announced an extensive land-reform program.

At Lake Success, the British representative, in urging the United Nations Security Council to investigate the recent coup in Czechoslovakia, said it bore "the same hall-mark" as earlier Moscow-inspired coups in Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Hungary and Poland. He declared that even at the risk of war the spread of communism must be "damned back."

Defeat of a possible veto by President Truman of a tax-reduction bill appeared to be a practical certainty as the Senate passed the Republican-sponsored $4,800,000,000 tax cut measure, 78 to 11.

Rising Delaware Partially Closes Routes 611 and 32

Easton—The Delaware River overflowed its banks today at several points in Bucks County, partially closing Routes 611 and State Highway 32. Lowlands were covered with water four inches to two feet deep, with worst conditions reported between Upper Black Eddy and Ulsters-town on Route 32. No loss of life was recorded, nor was property damage believed serious.

Predicts Republican Will Be Elected If Wallace Continues Race

Trenton, N. J.—Dr. George Gallup, founder of the American Institute of Public Opinion, predicted that a Republican would be elected President next November if Henry A. Wallace remains in the race. Addressing the 92nd annual New Jersey Press Association last night, Gallup said that Wallace Third Party Presidential aspirant will take 4,500,000 votes from President Truman in the industrial states which the nation's chief executive would need to win re-election.

8 Hurt, 20 Homeless In Alabama Tornado

Anniston, Ala.—Eight persons were injured and 20 others made homeless when a tornado roared through the nearby village of Coldwater last night and destroyed six homes. Fortunately the twister missed the main section of Coldwater, a tiny community eight miles from Anniston. No deaths were reported in the storm area. The injured were taken to the Anniston Memorial Hospital, where attendants said today that six were hospitalized and were in "fair" condition.

Italy Will Never Give Up Gorizia

Rome—Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi declared flatly today that Italy never will give up Gorizia in exchange for Yugoslav agreement to the return of Trieste. Reuters reported from Belgrade that official quarters there categorically denied that Yugoslavia will demand Gorizia in exchange for the return of Trieste to Italy. These quarters explained that the statement by Foreign Minister Stanjko Simic yesterday did not constitute a demand for Gorizia but merely expressed Yugoslav readiness to negotiate.

POLITICAL MEAT

Americans are not the greatest meat eaters in the world, being exceeded, in normal times, by the residents of Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Australia and New Zealand. But there is probably no country in the world where beef steaks, pork roasts and lamb chops wield more political influence than they do in the U. S. A.

Some political observers are inclined to believe that a shortage of meat in the fall of 1946 aided in the Republican sweep. They are eagerly awaiting, therefore, for the much-heralded shortage of meat this spring to arrive so they can begin estimating the possible effect on the election next November.

Actually, the meat supply, during and since the war, except for brief periods when large government purchases drained feedlots, has been ample, when judged by all normal American consumptive standards.

Increased buying power has created an abnormal demand for meat and enabled consumers to bid against each other for the available supply, thereby forcing prices upward and creating a false impression that meat was "shorter" than usual.

Consumption in 1947 has been variously estimated from 156 to 161 pounds per adult person.
That compared with 153 pounds in 1946 and 141 pounds in 1940.

Words of appreciation for the manner in which the American livestock industry has been able to maintain supplies in the last few years have been all too few.
In addition to supplying this country with record amounts of meat, the industry has provided billions of pounds for shipment overseas.

The strain on the American livestock industry has been great.
Cattle numbers have been declining since 1945, sheep since 1942 and hogs since 1943. But the reduction in the number of cattle and calves during 1947 was only half as great as government experts had predicted.

The industry has done an impressive job. There is every reason to believe that it will continue to do so.

The Walking Man received several votes for mayor in a Kansas City primary, probably in honor of the Pendergast politicians who go from one precinct to another, scattering votes for favorite candidates.

The situation would be clar-ified if the Swedes would come through with more of those well-confirmed rumors, and let us know just when the Russians expect to take over another country.

Uncle Sam must have been asleep at the switch or he would have joined the race for the South Pole regions. This country will need them for parking space.

Party leaders who are hoping Truman bows out of the presidential race should remember this is no time to be going back into the haberdashery business.

The Tasks Ahead

posed on the American people is that the individual has no rights except as the government lets him enjoy them—that he has, at best, only privileges.

The only way in a civilized world, and without resort to violence, by which the individual has a chance to be protected in his rights is to have a court where he can appeal for them and, in case he is being prosecuted, can insist on a trial by a jury of fellow-citizens.

This orderly approach to justice, fully promised by the Constitution, is daily denied the American people. The Supreme Court, as everyone knows, is filled with violent partisans on political matters. It has lost the dignity, respect and impartiality which it ought to possess.

Moreover, there are thousands of matters in which the courts, whether biased or not, cannot be appealed to by the citizens. Dozens of Federal laws deliberately throw the judicial functions of appeals and hearings into the hands of persons and groups which do not belong to the judicial branch of government, but instead, to the executive branch; and who, moreover, are constantly in the position of reviewing and passing upon their own acts—an atrociously unjust situation.

Going farther, the Federal courts themselves have voluntarily surrendered a great deal of their own authority—which is to say that, for obvious political reasons, they have been shirking their duty to protect the rights of the American people.

There are a number of borderline cases in which (often by a divided vote) the Supreme Court has decided not to let certain types of cases come before it. Those whose appeals are thus rejected have absolutely nowhere else to turn for justice or protection.

For that matter, even where the law adroitly by-passes the Federal judiciary, this has never been any real barrier to the courts, if they wanted to take jurisdiction. Any time the Federal courts decide to step in and protect the individual rights of this nation's men and women, all they need to do is rule that a law which denies to a citizen his right of appeal and review is, ipso facto, an unconstitutional law—which it probably is, and certainly ought to be.

How is this situation going to be remedied? Only by time and patience. Anything as radical as the Roosevelt court-packing plan of 1937 would undermine public confidence; it would be misunderstood, and do more harm than good. Judges could be, in theory, impeached and removed; but that would also be too drastic.

The remedy will come with time. By waiting, President Roosevelt was able to pack the Supreme Court (as he himself boasted) just as effectively as if his plan had not been rejected by Congress. Moreover, the Justices themselves are human; and they will temper their decisions to the obvious will of the people.

Furthermore, the worst flaw in the American judicial system is not in the court itself, but in the minds of the citizens. For a generation, there has been a steady, Communist-inspired barrage of propaganda against the courts. It will take a long time to re-educate the people to the fact that the existence of a competent, impartial judiciary is an absolute essential to the working out of Constitutional government.

The problem of re-establishing the judiciary is only one—and by no means the most urgent—of the matters which a coming Republican President will face.

Equally difficult and equally time-consuming are such questions as the following:

Working out a means, short of war and conquest, of living peacefully in the world with Russia.

Wiping out the Communist threat on the homefront—ferreting out the pro-Communists who have infiltrated into the government itself, and into various social institutions, including the labor movement.

Re-establishing "hard-money"—which is the true method of controlling inflation.

Finding a tax rate adequate to finance the Federal government's needs, while still low enough to permit free economy, private enterprise and individual initiative to function.

Solving the labor problem, which means giving working people adequate power to bargain collectively without setting up labor boss dictatorships.

Meeting the broad social needs of the country—health, housing, institutional welfare, etc., etc.—without bankrupting the nation.

Helping distressed foreign nations without "putting them on the dole."

This list only hits the high spots. There are innumerable other fields which might be added. But it is enough to show the scope of the problems.

Added to the task, of course, will be the need for re-staffing a great deal of the Federal government. Most of those now in key offices on Uncle Sam's two-million-person payroll are there, not by reason of any special qualifications for their jobs, but because they are violently partisan—violently opposed to precisely the program which a Republican President would be elected to carry out.

To find the thousands of qualified replacements, who would cooperate in restoring Constitutional government and economic sanity to this nation, will be, in itself, a herculean task.

had been appointed by council as the public relations man between council and the public.

President Rathke explained how the man at the desk in police headquarters, in answering calls, should give full and complete information, "be alert, pleasant, and adopt an interested voice. Don't make your interrogator draw every bit of information from you. You should volunteer it."

Traffic enforcement was touched upon by the speaker who said that in his opinion the public should be kept fully informed as to traffic regulations in the borough. "We want non-fixed tickets, so that the citizens can feel assured that all are receiving equal treatment. The importance of neatness of dress was emphasized, and President Rathke also referred to the recent organization of the police taking membership in the Fraternal Order of Police.

Mr. Aita's discussion with the officers dealt entirely with the relationship existing between the officers and the borough government.
He told them that the police committee of council acted only for council, and that the burgess was the executive officer of the police department. He mentioned the fact that the officers today are working nearer 40 hours a week than ever before. He considered with them the situation which will be created when Bristol township puts an officer on patrol duty, and how the police radio calls for the township officer will be handled through the Bristol police switch-board. "We are waiting to get an opinion from the borough solicitor as to swearing in Bristol police officers to function in Bristol township, and the Bristol township officer to function in Bristol borough." Here Mr. Aita explained at length that Bristol police officers, if the proposed arrangement is consummated, will go into Bristol township to do police duty only upon emergency occasions. He explained that it is not the intention to have Bristol police officers do duty in Bristol township, only upon occasions of extreme urgency. The officer of Bristol township will function otherwise.

Jewish Force Has Back- Ground That Is Most Unique

espionage and intelligence groups, the transportation corps and elsewhere.

Literally, the Haganah handled the recruiting, despite its "illegal" status. But mostly that recruiting was a matter of selecting from the volunteers, for the British held down the number of Jews permitted to serve. Even so, the percentage was high.

There were 19,100 surviving male officers and men, 2441 ATS—British equivalent of our WACS—officers and enlisted women, and 837 super-numerary police under military control in the British army. They saw service all the way from the early desert campaigns to the climax in Germany.

Countless additional Palestine Jews slipped out to join the American, the Canadian, the Australian and the French armies, usually with faked credentials—but that was war, and a fighting man was a fighting man, acceptable without too much questioning.

Finally, thousands of others saw service in the underground troops of Central Europe, fighting the Nazis from the first to the last, and becoming experts in that highly specialized and highly dangerous field.

So much for past training, which presently is being put to good use in countless hidden camps scattered throughout Palestine. I have visited a dozen or so such camps and seen the efficiency with which these collected military tricks are being incorporated in the swift training of young Palestinians today. . . .

A little-known part of present training for the future Jewish army is provided along the underground refugee trail from Central Europe to Palestine—and these points, too, I have visited.

Since those persons who reach Palestine without benefit of pasport usually have a long and arduous trip, spotted with lengthy waits at the various underground stations, the Haganah—which brings most of them to the Holy Land—has taken advantage of those delays.

Starting with the displaced persons camps, I watched young refugee Jews being given the inval-

able physical conditioning which must precede any basic training course.

Their instructor usually was a Haganah man who had smuggled himself into camp to help pave the way to Palestine for them.

By the time they arrive, such youngsters are ready for the more specialized types of military training—such as the use of weapons, combat techniques and the like.

At home in Palestine, Haganah has been even more busy in preparation for the day it could take off its wraps.

It set up its own selective service system, and it is noteworthy that the British have not interfered with its operation to any extent.

All Jews, male and female, between the ages of 17 and 35 were first required to register. In rough outline, the draft called for those under 25 to serve, regardless of whether they had wives and children. Those over that age who were without dependents also were subject to immediate call.

But drivers and movie-ticket salesmen demand draft cards—but

In most cases, the problem has been to keep too many men and women over 35 from trying to serve, when they are of more use in vital civilian jobs.

Almost every week sees a new training post going up somewhere in Palestine to handle this huge influx of volunteers and draftees who will augment the already world-training and war-tested troops of the Jewish Army. . . .

For nearly a month I visited such places, from northern Palestine to the Negev, occasionally in the company of American and other outside military observers who were known to be friendly.

And with them, I agree that the quality of both training and training technique in the Jewish Army probably is unequalled anywhere in the world. After all—it combines the best of them all.

(Tomorrow—But the world's best army could not fight bare-handed.
What weapons does the new Jewish Army have, and what does it need?)

You can talk to one man. Want Ads talk to thousands.

"The latter is the one to look out for." He told the officers to approach the man from the side, gave the proper grip and instructions on balance. He demonstrated many holds and how to break them. He gave a list of the vulnerable spots of the body and methods used to cripple or maim an adversary.

The adept FBI agent demonstrated various holds to the class members. Among them were hammerlocks, body holds, arm locks, etc. At the conclusion of the class he demonstrated the proper ways of relieving a man of a gun, a nightstick, and a knife.

espionage and intelligence groups, the transportation corps and elsewhere.

Literally, the Haganah handled the recruiting, despite its "illegal" status. But mostly that recruiting was a matter of selecting from the volunteers, for the British held down the number of Jews permitted to serve. Even so, the percentage was high.

There were 19,100 surviving male officers and men, 2441 ATS—British equivalent of our WACS—officers and enlisted women, and 837 supernumerary police under military control in the British army. They saw service all the way from the early desert campaigns to the climax in Germany.

Countless additional Palestine Jews slipped out to join the American, the Canadian, the Australian and the French armies, usually with faked credentials—but that was war, and a fighting man was a fighting man, acceptable without too much questioning.

Finally, thousands of others saw service in the underground troops of Central Europe, fighting the Nazis from the first to the last, and becoming experts in that highly specialized and highly dangerous field.

So much for past training, which presently is being put to good use in countless hidden camps scattered throughout Palestine. I have visited a dozen or so such camps and seen the efficiency with which these collected military tricks are being incorporated in the swift training of young Palestinians today.

A little-known part of present training for the future Jewish army is provided along the underground refugee trail from Central Europe to Palestine—and these points, too, I have visited.

Since those persons who reach Palestine without benefit of passport usually have a long and arduous trip, spotted with lengthy waits at the various underground stations, the Haganah—which brings most of them to the Holy Land—has taken advantage of those delays.

Starting with the displaced persons camps, I watched young refugee Jews being given the invaluable physical conditioning which must precede any basic training course.

able physical conditioning which must precede any basic training course.

Their instructor usually was a Haganah man who had smuggled himself into camp to help pave the way to Palestine for them.

By the time they arrive, such youngsters are ready for the more specialized types of military training—such as the use of weapons, combat techniques and the like.

At home in Palestine, Haganah has been even more busy in preparation for the day it could take off its wraps.

It set up its own selective service system, and it is noteworthy that the British have not interfered with its operation to any extent.

All Jews, male and female, between the ages of 17 and 35 were first required to register. In rough outline, the draft called for those under 25 to serve, regardless of whether they had wives and children. Those over that age who were without dependents also were subject to immediate call.

But drivers and movie-ticket salesmen demand draft cards—but in most cases, the problem has been to keep too many men and women over 35 from trying to serve, when they are of more use in vital civilian jobs.

Almost every week sees a new training post going up somewhere in Palestine to handle this huge influx of volunteers and draftees who will augment the already world-trained and war-tested troops of the Jewish Army.

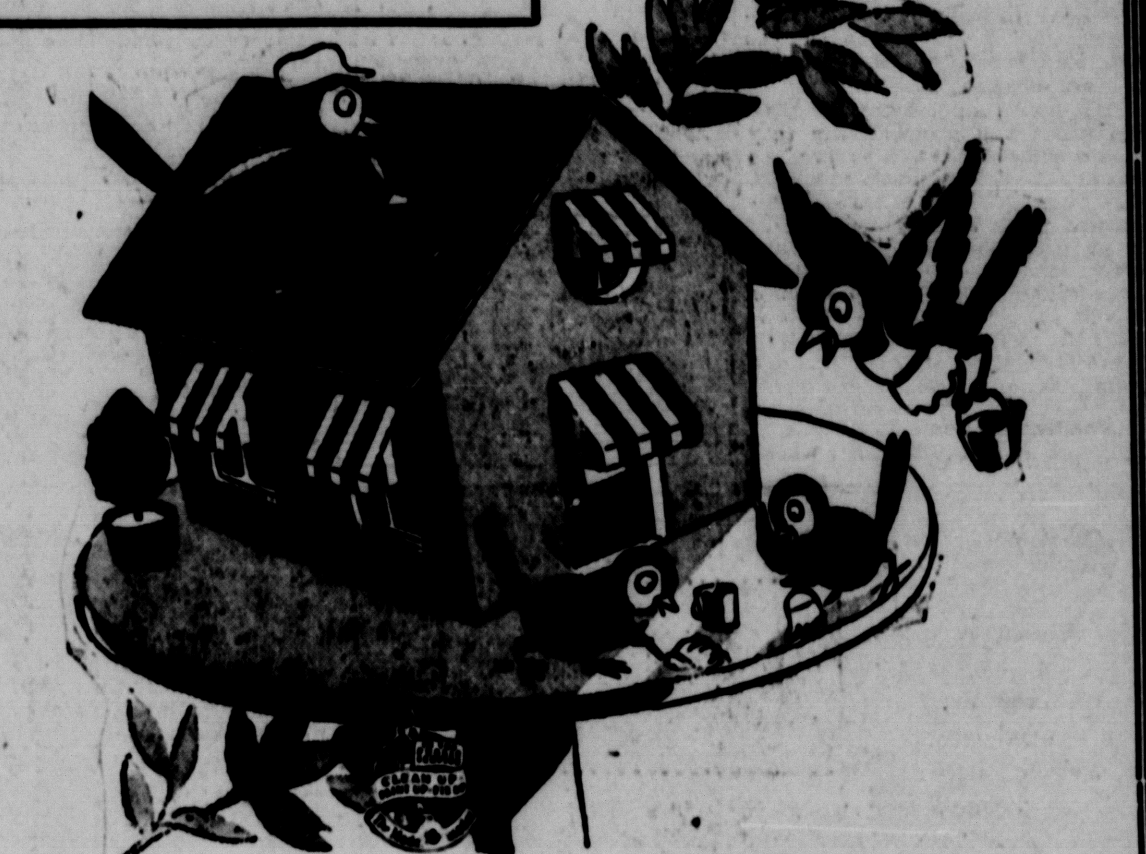

For nearly a month I visited such places, from northern Palestine to the Negev, occasionally in the company of American and other outside military observers who were known to be friendly.

And with them, I agree that the quality of both training and technique in the Jewish Army probably is unequalled anywhere in the world. After all—it combines the best of them all.

(Tomorrow—But the world's best army could not fight bare-handed. What weapons does the new Jewish Army have, and what does it need?)

You can talk to one man. Want to talk to thousands.

Eight more teams have submitted entries in the Lower Bucks County Gold Medal Basketball Tournament which will be played on the high school floor on the nights of March 29th, 30th, April 1st and 2nd.

The new entries are: Bristol Township, Falcons, Penn A. C. Harriman, Parkway Inn, Morrisville Boys' Club and two teams from Trenton. Previously, the Bristol Methodist Boys' Club and Franklin A. C. entered the tourney, making 13 teams in all. The tournament will be limited to 13 teams and Wednesday is the deadline for entries.

The Harriman team, one of the entries, will be managed by Joe Roe, Murphy avenue. He has submitted the following as his roster: John Pindar, Frank Murphy, Joseph McInerney, Alan Burton, Bud Fraser, Ed Mazzanti, and Michael Indolito.

Joseph Volponi, of Lincoln avenue, is manager of the Falcons. His players' list is composed of the following: Charles Rouch, Ralph M. Gallone, Ralph J. Gallone, Vincent Lella, Frank Bechter, Robert Gilles, Thomas Montervino, Richard Puchino and Peter Rubino.

The Township appears to have a strong array of players. The team was picked by William Walter, of Bath Road, and includes: David Morrell, Paul Killian, Howard Bailey, Tony Pfaffenrath, James Morrell, Norman Vetter, John Bailey, Raymond Gallagher, and Bobby Ennis.

The other teams have not submitted their rosters as yet. The two Trenton teams are the Carlin A. A. and Snyder's Sport Center. The teams are from the Trenton City Recreation League and have been picked by Joseph R. Logue, director.

Morrisville Boys' Club will announce its roster in the next few days.

Coach Jerry Bloom, of the Bristol High School, and tournament manager, is enthused over the expectations of an annual gold medal tournament here.

Two large trophies and 71 individual medal awards will be made.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the tourney will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the high school building. At this time, judges will be selected to pick out the outstanding players of the tournament.

Henry Morgan, well-known Lower Bucks County basketball official, has been placed in charge of the referees, while Thomas Juno will be in charge of the official scoring.

BHS and Profy Game For Tonight Cancelled

The basketball game between Bristol High and Profy's, of the Bristol League, scheduled for tonight, has been called off.

Uncertainty in regard to the status of high school players participating against players who are not graduates of the Bristol high school caused the postponement.

The teams were to have played in a benefit contest for the high school insurance fund and the Bristol Basketball League's injury fund.

In the preliminary game, Franklin, of the Bristol Youth League, would have played the Bristol high junior varsity.
